How Student-Athletes Benefit

- StraighterLine's self-paced asynchronous online courses provide the flexibility student-athletes may need to succeed in a degree program.
- Student-athletes can use StraighterLine to help balance their course load and demanding training and competition schedules.
- StraighterLine courses are available for student-athletes to start immediately – no waiting for the start of the term – ensuring they have the necessary prerequisites and credits to stay on track to degree completion. This makes StraighterLine courses a good fit for breaks between terms and for helping student-athletes meet and maintain eligibility requirements.
- NJCAA members can complement current course offerings with StraighterLine's 60+ general education courses.

"StraighterLine was very helpful. I needed some credits so I could be eligible for my sport this fall. A couple of my teammates were in the same predicament so they told me about it, and it turned out my college accepts most of the credits from StraighterLine. You can work at your own pace. It's the most convenient and affordable way to take classes that you need."

"The learning experience with StraighterLine was amazing. I was able to move at my own pace and do my own thing, but I always had help. The book was there and a lot of great resources to be able to learn and do the class. The online tutoring 24/7 was wonderful. I was able to go in and somebody would help me no matter what time of day. I enjoyed it and I highly recommend it to everybody."
